'Please give me chance of a job'

A BLIND woman who has been offered only two job interviews in eight years has pleaded with local employers "to be given a chance".

Christina Davis, of Broadcroft Crescent, Haverhill, has sent out hundreds of CVs to potential employers and responded to more than 50 adverts with no success.

This is despite the 24-year-old boasting 10 GCSEs at grades A to C, three A levels at grade C and a degree from Bury St Edmunds' West Suffolk College in Business Management.

Christina was born 27 weeks premature with detached retinas, leaving her registered blind from the age of 6 months, and although she has never let this hold her back in life she has become increasingly upset at her failure to find work.

She said: "All I want is a chance to prove myself because apart from not being able to see, I am a bright person and am willing to give anything a go if given the opportunity to do so."

Christina, who is engaged to 33-year-old horticulturalist Kevin Ramsey, feels she would be most suited to admin or promotional work due to the help offered by "talking" computer software.

Christina, who has spent the past four years since graduation doing voluntary work and helping her ill grandmother, has even gone to the extreme of setting up a Facebook group called "Support Christina Davis to get in to work and Dfing", reflecting her major hobbies of music and dance.

She added: "Setting up the group was really just a cry for help - I did not know what to do. I have 142 members now and am slowly getting the word out.

"I have been to a number of organisations who are meant to help people with disabilities like mine, such as Action for Blind and the Papworth Trust but we just kept going round in circles and every offer of help seemed to fizzle out.

"Staff kept changing and I was passed around. I have now decided to do what I can on my own by sending out CVs and checking vacancies in newspapers."

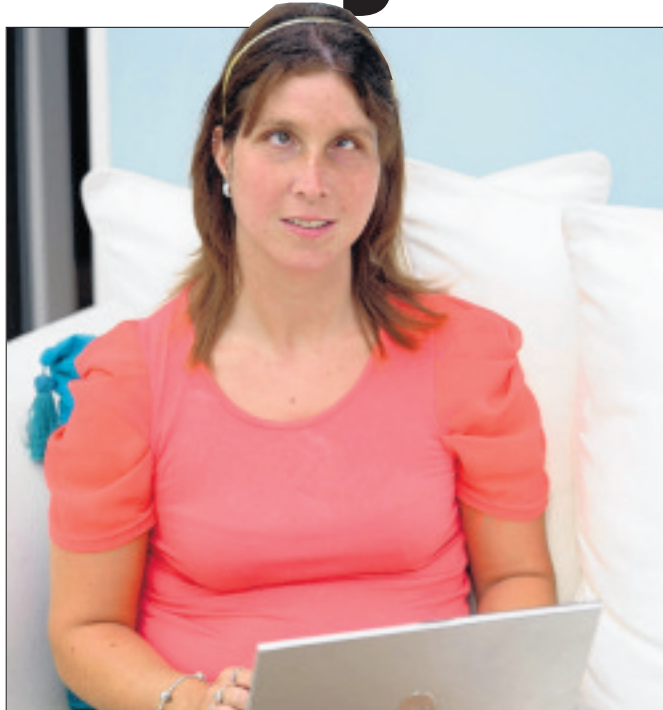

Christina has been supported by her mother Maggie, who works in Argos in the town, father Trevor, 48, and sister Zoe, 19.

Maggie, 47, said: "I think employers see the negatives rather than the positives.

"They aren't doing it maliciously but it is easier for them to say no. They should be aware that they can get grants for software from the Government.

"It frustrates me - she is intelligent and she tries to live life to the full but she needs to be given that chance to prove herself."

Youth on lead theft charge

A TEENAGER has been charged with stealing lead from garages. The 17-year-old was arrested after police were called to Norton Road in Haverhill at 10.30pm on Monday following reports that a man was on a garage roof.

Then, at 11.35pm, it was reported that a group of suspicious men were in the area.

The youth was arrested at the scene and taken to Bury St Edmunds Police Station for questioning. He has been charged with theft and is due before Bury Youth Court on June 1.

Sat nav taken from Fiat

A CAR has been broken into in a Suffolk town's main shopping street.

A blue Fiat Punto, parked on High Street in Haverhill, was broken into sometime between 6pm Monday and 5.40am Tuesday.

The driver's door window was smashed and a satellite navigation system was stolen.

Anyone with information on the theft should contact Haverhill police on (01284) 774100 quoting reference HH/11/1037.

Advice on TV switchover

A ROADSHOW to help people change to digital television is rolling into town this week.

The switchover event will take place in Queen's Street, Haverhill, from 9am-5pm on Saturday. Digital TV advisers will be on hand to give information about the switchover and the help scheme.

Conservatory broken into

A HOMEOWNER was awakened in the middle of the night by intruders in their conservatory.

Offenders had broken into the house in Tower Court, Haverhill, shortly after midnight on Monday but were disturbed by the occupant as they moved through the conservatory. They left and escaped through the garden. Nothing was stolen and the offenders were not seen.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to DC Sarah Shepperson at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Lorna shines in quest for stardom

A BRITNEY Spears look-a-like from Haverhill has shot to fame after appearing on Britain's Got Talent.

Lorna Bliss, 29, dressed as an air hostess to carry out a raunchy performance of the pop star's Toxic single for the ITV1 show on Saturday.

She danced on the judges' desk before kissing Amanda Holden – but got three 'no' buzzes from the panel.

Then the judges took a U-turn and put her through to the next round.

Last year, Lorna was the star of a music night in the town's market square that featured tributes to various pop artists.

She has performed her act all over the world including, France, Brazil and the US.

Nick Keeble, leisure manager at Haverhill Town council, said: "Lorna performed as Britney in one of our tribute nights last summer and was very popular.

"Kids were queuing up to meet her afterwards and to get her autograph.

"She also performed in a number of pantomimes in the town as a youngster."

Lorna claims to be the UK's official number one Britney impersonator on her website, and also reveals the lengths she has gone to in imitating her idol on the page.

She proudly boasts about how she shaved her head to copy the troubled singer, who had done it during a mental breakdown.

Lorna says on her site: "My life as Britney started back in 1999 when Baby One More Time had just been released.

"And my career as Britney has grown along with hers. "I also shaved off my hair when Britney did and was the only Britney Spears impersonator in the world that did.

"Shaving off my hair seemed to shock a lot of people at the time but for me I figured I should go through the same as her – 'being Britney' had been good to me, therefore I decided I should keep it real by following suit."

Lorna grew up in Haverhill and returned to live in the town in 2009. She found her theatrical calling through the Haverhill Operatic Society rendition of the musical Finian's Rainbow, and then moved on to perform with the Hotpants pantomime group.

Star turn: Lorna Bliss, from Haverhill, claims to be Britain's leading Britney Spears impersonator.

Rescue bid at country park

BY ADAM LUKE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A POPULAR country park looks set to be saved from closure after local groups came forward with plans to take over its running.

Clare Country Park was one of 19 parks and recreation sites in Suffolk that were under serious threat after the county council announced plans to withdraw funding and transfer ownership of parks to the community, or take a last resort of shutting them down.

However, it has been revealed that 14 of these endangered areas, including Clare's, appear to be safe after interested parties offered their support.

Cllr Judy Terry, portfolio holder for green issues, said: "I can confirm that two local groups have shown an interest in Clare Country Park and are prepared to work with the National Trust over what to do next.

Suffolk County Council will now be talking to those who have submitted a proposal about how they can develop their plans to ensure they are financially viable, fit the needs of the community and are sustainable in the long term.

Cllr Terry said: "We need to get the various parties together and we have set up a forum to facilitate that. It will meet next month.

"The local community have already engaged with us during the ongoing process and they want the park to remain open, as do we. The park is important for Clare and for the wider community in Suffolk.

"We have to get this right and it might take some time but it is an important site and we have to keep everyone on board."

Cllr Terry added: "We will continue our funding of the park until the decisions are made – there will not be a closure."

As for the remaining five sites across the county, the council has said it will continue to speak to local parishes and communities to find solutions, with funding available to keep the sites open while discussions take place.

School to mark end of an era

PUPILS at a school due to close this summer are working to produce a commemorative book.

Clare Middle School in Cavendish Road will close on July 31 as part of the national education shake-up.

But children's illustrator Jo Brooker is helping pupils ensure memories of life at the school are not forgotten with the creation of The Best Bits – a collection of words and images celebrating the best things Clare Middle School will be remembered for by all ages.

A select group of 15 talented pupils have worked with Miss Brooker on the book which will then be printed and distributed to all children and adults associated with the school.

The school, which has around 280 pupils aged 11 to 13, is set to become an independent free school in the autumn.

Pirates sail in for blockbusting fundraiser

PIRATES were in swashbuckling form at a cinema to celebrate this week's big movie release and to raise money for a good cause.

Customers and employees got into the pillaging mood at Haverhill Cineworld in Ehringhausen Way to mark the countdown to the release of Pirates of the Caribbean: On Stranger Tides and raised cash for St Nicholas Hospice at the same time.

The pirate-themed day on Saturday included a treasure hunt, a best dressed pirate competition, colouring competition and plenty of booty up for grabs.

Jamie Roger, who works at the cinema and was Jack Sparrow for the day, said: "The day went well. The treasure hunt was particularly successful. The customers seemed to enjoy it and got into the spirit, and we managed to raise a fair bit of money."

Staff will also be on hand to make a collection for the charity, which supports patients with terminal illnesses and their families in the region, on Wednesday when the pirates blockbuster is released.

Abby Mayes, a fundraiser for the hospice, said: "We are grateful to Cineworld, Haverhill, for thinking of the hospice when organising these events."

Ahoy there: Lisa Martin, Jamie Rogers and Rebecca Taylor get in the mood.

Public inquiry bid to rescue care home

CAMPAIGNERS have vowed to ensure a public inquiry will take place into the future of a residential care home in Haverhill.

Suffolk County Council began a three-month consultation earlier this year over the future of the 16 care homes it runs, including the one in Place Court, Haverhill.

The council's cabinet will decide on Tuesday whether to work with commercial and property advisor KPMG to market the homes over the next nine months, with their future being decided in February.

Maureen Byrne, Haverhill town and borough councillor, and now new mayor, has led a campaign to secure the future of Place Court.

She welcomed the delay over any decision and said to have a public inquiry 3,675 names would be needed on a petition. They currently have just under 3,000.

The campaigners are trying to prevent the closure or passing to the private sector of the home in Haverhill. The option of closing all the homes has been discounted by the county council.

Travellers' group leads to uproar

TRAVELLERS have met with an angry response from residents after they moved onto a public open space in Haverhill – and will be evicted.

Dozens of members of the travelling community rolled up in six caravans on Wednesday onto a patch of land between Bergamot Road, Chivers Road and Bramley Road, which is owned by St Edmundsbury District Council.

The grassy area, which is flanked by trees on one side, is home to a children's play area and is a popular spot for walkers and dog owners.

A local resident told the Weekly News he was concerned about the arrival of the group.

The pensioner, who wished to remain anonymous, said: "I am not the only

BY ADAM LUKE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

resident in the area who is worried about the arrival so close to where we live.

"A number of people including myself have contacted the police and council to complain.

"I have lived here for 11 years and this is a nice, quiet area – this is why we came. There have been travellers off Chivers Road before and they caused trouble and left litter. We are worried the same might happen here. The area is popular for walkers and children and there are wild flowers there – we don't want it to be taken from the community."

A spokeswoman for Suffolk Police said on Thursday: "We were notified of travellers pitched up on land off Bergamot Road yesterday afternoon.

"We have visited the travellers and spoken to local residents, and will monitor the area and continue to liaise with the community and the travellers. We will deal with any criminal offences as we would any other location."

Because trespass is a civil offence rather than a criminal one, it is up to the landowners to move them on.

A spokeswoman for St Edmundsbury confirmed that the authority was aware of the situation and is dealing with it.

She said: "An Environmental Health Officer has spoken to the group and made them aware that they are illegally occupying council owned land.

"We will be taking all necessary steps to evict them and will be looking at what measures are necessary to deter future unauthorised access onto this site."

Purse snatch leads to new police alert

A PURSE was stolen from a woman's shoulder bag in a supermarket – just a week after police warned people to take precautions following an almost identical incident at another town store.

This time the offence took place in Tesco in Cangle Road, Haverhill, between 12.20pm and 12.40pm last Friday when a 62-year-old woman had the item taken from the bag in her trolley.

A spokeswoman for Suffolk Police said: "A woman bent over the trolley to look at meat in the freezer section and asked the victim for help. The purse was found to be missing shortly afterwards."

The suspect is described as of Mediterranean appearance, 5ft tall, in her late 40s with black shoulder-length hair and wearing dark clothing and a red top.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to PC Robert Bunton at Haverhill Police on (01284) 774100 or Crime-stoppers on 0800 555 111.

The latest offence comes days after three similar crimes in Haverhill – one in Sainsbury's in Haycock's Road, one in High Street and another at the town's recreation ground in Camps Road.

Suffolk Police are not linking the crimes but have urged people to keep their bags securely fastened.

Picture: David Doughty

Awards night tribute to movers and shakers

BY JENNIE BAKER

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

CHILFORD Hall was filled to the rafters with up-and-coming entrepreneurs and big names in business at a glitzy award ceremony on Saturday night.

Haverhill Chamber of Commerce's highly-anticipated Business Awards 2011, held in Linton, rewarded the hard work and innovation of large and small companies, the best bosses and greenest business practices.

The evening kicked off with a Champagne reception, and the Young Chamber of the Suffolk town raised the roof with an Olympic Wii Challenge, raising £101 for St Nicholas Hospice, the event's chosen charity.

Claire Young, a finalist in BBC1's The Apprentice, and speaker for the night, who judged the Young Entrepreneur category, said: "The preparation, attention to detail and all round positive 'let's have a great evening' vibe on the night are a testament to why Haverhill is an area of such change, business is growing in the town and the new era is really being embraced by Haverhill's business community."

Following a sumptuous three-course meal, Sarah Howard, chairman of the chamber, took to the stage to welcome the guests, judges and sponsors of the awards.

Speaking after the event, she said: "The awards are all about promoting Haverhill and I don't think we could have done it in a more effective way than we did on Saturday night."

"However, it wasn't just Haverhill businesses who enjoyed the night, we also had some fantastic high profile guests from outside the town which just goes to show we are generating great interest in Haverhill and what it has to offer."

The tension peaked after her address, as thoughts turned to the awards themselves. The categories were summarised for the audience, the nominees read out, and then there was nothing left but to announce the winners.

Theresa Foddering, owner of A-Revolution Beauty Salon in Haverhill, stole the show, walking away with three awards, including the most sought-after accolade, Business of the Year.

Speaking about their decision, the judges said: "This was a very close award and particularly difficult to judge between all the outstanding award winners in different sectors."

"However, we chose A-Revolution because we felt entrepreneurs are the backbone of this economy and this business in particular demonstrated great entrepreneurship."

The Haverhill Weekly News sponsored the Employer of the Year award and among the judges was Jenny Chapman, business editor of the Cambridge News, the Weekly News's sister paper.

The presentations made, guests danced the night away to the sound of Tangent, a seven-piece soul band.

Battery thefts spark new alert

POLICE have urged the public in Haverhill to be vigilant following a number of thefts of batteries across the West Suffolk region over the last two months.

Officers have noted a steep rise in the crimes since the start of April, with 65 batteries stolen from vehicles, electric fences and bird scarers, and scrap items.

A spokeswoman for Suffolk police said: "To protect vehicles, keep them in a secure garage or a well-lit, public place. Additional bonnet locks and brackets for batteries are available to keep these areas more secure. Use lighting, alarms, secure gates and CCTV to keep your property safe.

"Fences and bird scarers are designed for use in more remote areas, so regularly check your equipment and ensure access cannot be gained to your land unlawfully.

"And if you have scrap items, take them to scrap yards or recycling centres as soon as possible, rather than leaving them lying around your property. Report to police any suspicious callers, persons or vehicles."

She added that lead-free batteries are available, which are less attractive to thieves.

Help group celebrates first-year milestone

A FREE drop-in centre offering advice and help to people facing financial difficulties has celebrated its first anniversary.

The REACH centre in Haverhill's Clements Estate has assisted around 20 clients a week over the past year, with a range of issues, including form completion, housing and debt, and are anticipating a busy next 12 months.

Due to the centre's success, it will be extending its opening hours on a Tuesday from the end of this month into the afternoon, and will also run specialised courses on money budgeting and management on Wednesday afternoons.

REACH, a community projects group which grew out of the River Of Life church, took over a former Salvation Army cafe and houses organisations, Christians Against Poverty and Haverhill food bank and furniture bank.

More than 25 volunteers gathered to celebrate the occasion, as supporters and clients attended the get-together to offer their congratulations.

Henry Wilson, projects director, said: "It's been an amazing first year. Our aim was always to assist our clients better and provide the space and time and this we have seen time and time again.

"For example, a young family came to us for furniture got the furniture they needed, but while listening we soon discovered a number of avenues available to the family, and that's what we're about."

For further information contact the REACH on 01440 712950.

Ban for man who drove at 119mph

BY JACK GROVE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A SECURITY guard has been banned from driving for 42 days after he was caught speeding on the A11 at 119mph.

Benjamin Sibbons was stopped by police between Great Chesterford and Little Abington on February 12 after officers clocked him doing almost 50mph above the 70mph limit.

The 20-year-old admitted speeding as he appeared at Cambridge Magistrates' Court last Friday and apologised for his driving.

The court heard how Sibbons, of Balsham Road, Linton, had ignored numerous signs warning of previous crashes on the road as he drove his Ford Fiesta.

In a letter from Sibbons read out in court, he said he was disappointed with himself by having to appear in court.

"I have learned from my mistake and I am now very careful about watching my speed," he added.

Sibbons said he had been distracted

Banned: Benjamin Sibbons apologised to the court for his driving.

at the time because he was worried about two members of his family who had recently received hospital treatment.

Asking magistrates not to impose a ban, Sibbons said a driving licence was vital for his work as a security guard for an agricultural firm, as he needed to drive between sites.

But chairman of the bench Stephanie Bishop said the high speed meant a ban was unavoidable.

"You have been very fortunate that we are not looking at injury or death here – just speeding," she added.

Sibbons was banned from driving for 42 days and ordered to pay a fine of £315, as well as court costs of £75 and a £15 victim impact surcharge.

They then entered the garage using a key from the house and stole four bikes – a man's yellow and a man's red Peugeot Racing trials bike, a man's blue Trek mountain bike and a man's green and red Cannondale mountain bike. Calls in relation to this incident should be made to DC Jacqui Mumford at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Theatre group in call to young performers

YOUNGSTERS have the chance to get involved in a town's new youth musical.

Singers, actors and dancers aged 13 to 18 from Haverhill and the area are invited to take part in Centre Stage Company's version of Copacabana, which will be performed in October.

The show sees protagonist Lola travel to New York in search of fame and fortune where she performs at the world famous Copacabana nightclub, with love interests and gangster rivalries making life a little complicated.

Singing sessions will take place on May 24 and 26, before auditions on June 7 and 9, at Samuel Ward Academy in Chalkstone Way from 7.30pm on each night. Regular rehearsals will then follow on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. For more information contact Karen on 01787 237887 or email lmayes92@hotmail.co.uk.

Middle school memories celebrated with display

A DISPLAY has been unveiled to celebrate the history of Haverhill's middle schools.

The exhibition will be at the Haverhill Arts theatre in High Street throughout this month and was opened with a cheese and wine event.

Since the early 1970s, Haverhill has three middle schools – home to pupils aged 9 to 13 – Castle Hill Community Middle School in School Lane, Parkway Middle School in Park Road and the Chalkstone Middle School and Technology College in Millfields Way.

In July, all three will close following a decision in 2007 by Suffolk County Council.

Over the last three years, Haverhill's middle schools have been preparing for closure. Building work has begun at the town's primary schools to house the new Year 5 and 6 pupils.

Becky Baldwin, of Castle Hill Middle, said: "This display has been put together by Haverhill middle schools to recognise the achievements of pupils, hard work of staff and support of parents."

Cashpoint fraudsters at large

FRAUDSTERS have stolen money from bank accounts by using a "skimming device" scam.

Suffolk police are investigating illegal activity at cash machines in Haverhill High Street earlier this month, in which the devices were attached to the normal systems.

At around 7pm on Saturday, May 7, a woman tried to use a cash machine at Lloyds Bank, but her card was swallowed.

A man then approached her and said he had also had problems. The woman could not retrieve her card, so left and later found that money had been taken from her account.

Police would like to speak to the man about the incident. He is described as white, in his late 30s or early 40s, and wearing dark casual clothing.

Then, on the evening of Tuesday, May 10, two devices were removed from the Lloyds cashpoint and taken to Haverhill police station by a member of the public.

On the same night, a man tried to use a cash machine at the Post Office, but his card got stuck as it was returned to him. He was eventually able to retrieve his card, but part of the machine also came out, and was handed in at Haverhill police station.

A spokeswoman for Suffolk police warned people to check cash machines and not to use them if it was thought they had been tampered with.

She added: "When using cash machines, shield your PIN and do not allow yourself to become distracted. If your card is retained, ring your bank immediately.

"Check your statements regularly and report any suspicious activity to your bank or lender."

When girl saw herself in mirror tears rolled down her cheeks

Amazing recovery: Kelly-Ann today all smiles and back in the saddle.

LOOKING down at her little girl lying in a crumpled heap on the grass, Carol Challinor was numb with horror. Thrown from a horse, which reared and hit her square in the head, 9-year-old Kelly-Ann's face was a bloody, unrecognisable mess.

"I honestly didn't believe it was my daughter lying there," remembers Carol. "It was the most horrific thing. Her face was completely crushed."

"Her eyes... One of her eyes looked like it was coming right out. There was blood coming out of her nose and her ear. And she was thrashing around."

"It was just the most awful thing I've ever seen. I honestly looked at her and thought 'There must be some mistake: this isn't Kelly-Ann' – but it was."

Kelly-Ann had sustained major head injuries. Her entire face had been flattened: her jaw, cheekbones, eye orbits, nose and skull were all fractured in multiple places. Rushed to Addenbrooke's, doctors warned Kelly-Ann might die; if she survived, they cautioned she could have severe brain damage.

When Kelly-Ann's face was flattened in a horrific horse-riding accident, doctors warned she might die, or suffer severe brain damage. Now she's a smart, pretty teenager who's still happiest in the saddle... Alice Ryan reports.

To see Kelly-Ann now, a bright, outgoing and seriously sporty 15-year-old, it's clear her recovery has been little short of miraculous. Her face – which had to be almost completely rebuilt by surgeons – looks totally normal; the only sign of her traumatic accident is a long scar, hidden in her hairline.

Excelling at school, she is predicted straight As and A's in her upcoming GCSEs. She has a busy social life and appears to live for sport, listing rowing, rounders, athletics, netball and rugby among her favoured pastimes.

Most amazingly of all, Kelly-Ann is a keen and accomplished horsewoman who harbours ambitions of becoming a top-flight eventer; last summer saw her compete in the British Riding Club Junior National Eventing Championships.

So didn't her accident put her off? "Oh no," smiles Kelly-Ann, who lives in Exning. "I just saw it as a bit of a blip, which meant I couldn't ride for a while. For me it's always been horses, ever since I started riding at about five or six."

Carol and husband Noel moved to Britain, from their native South Africa, when Kelly-Ann and younger brother Robert were still tots. "It's really horses that brought us here," explains Carol – Noel works at Exning's Northmoor Stud, and the couple also keep a small yard of their own. "But this is home now, most definitely our home."

At the time of her accident, Kelly-Ann had her own pony, Chrissy. But that day she was riding another, decidedly more temperamental horse. "I asked her to do something a second time and she decided she didn't want to do it," recounts the teenager. "She reared up, knocked me out and fell over backwards; instead of landing right on top of me, she hit me with the side of her head. I actually don't remember anything about it, not a thing."

Carol, in a nearby barn, heard screaming: "I heard someone saying 'Kelly, breathe!' and I knew something was majorly wrong. I ran over to where she was... I thought 'This is it. Our lives are never going to be the same again.'"

Within minutes First Responders and then Magpas were on the scene. "I was dead calm. Dead, dead calm," continues Carol. "Once they all arrived I just stepped back, to let them get on with their jobs. It wasn't until we got to the hospital that it really hit me – and then my wheels just fell off..."

Blue-lighted to Addenbrooke's, Noel says a team of 15 medics was waiting 'like a scene from ER'. Putting Kelly-Ann in a drug-induced coma, they proceeded to take numerous X-rays in attempt to assess the damage.

The Challinors still have copies of those images – and they make frightening viewing. A side view shows that Kelly-Ann's whole face had been pushed back into her head; among the most serious injuries was a huge rip across her forehead, and a split at the base of her skull.

"Those fractures occurred either side of her riding hat," says Noel. "If she hadn't been wearing that, everything in between would have been crushed too. Without a doubt, that hat saved her life."

Kelly-Ann remained in the coma, on drips and ventilation in paediatric intensive care (known as PICU), for five days. Coming round was, she says, something of a blur: "To start with, I thought I was having a dream. I dreamt I was flying, then I heard all these voices around me... And I can remember a lady coming and helping me do some drawings: typically, I wanted to draw my pony."

As the swelling in her head subsided, doctors were pleased with Kelly-Ann's brain function. But it was clear she would need complex surgery to reconstruct her face; the surgeons, remembers Carol, were frank about the risks involved.

A team of experts – including maxillofacial, neuro and ophthalmic surgeons – all played a part. Reassembling Kelly-Ann's bone structure was extra-challenging because of her age: aware she had a lot more growing to do, surgeons were reluctant to insert too much metalwork; in the end, only two metal plates were used (in her forehead and one cheekbone) along with some wiring.

By making incisions high on her forehead and inside her mouth, scarring was kept to a minimum. But doctors did have to remove all Kelly-Ann's hair, which she remembers as 'one of the worst moments'. "I woke up and all my hair was gone. It sounds silly, but that seemed really awful. That was one of the worst moments, second only to removing the plaster from my head: the nurses let me do it myself, it was so painful, and it took me forever."

"That was the first time in all of this that this child cried," says Carol. "And she was very upset about her hair: she had long, blonde locks at the time and she loved them. Robert was so supportive: he said straight away 'I'm going to shave my head too'. I took my hair off as well, so the three of us were skinheads together."

Among Carol's most abiding memories is the moment Kelly-Ann first saw herself in the mirror. "It was about two days before she was discharged and her grandmother and I took her for a bath. She looked at herself in the mirror and didn't say a word; the tears just rolled silently down her cheeks."

"We'd been warned that, because of the location of her forehead injury, two things might happen: she might lose her sense of smell, and her personality could be affected," continues Carol. "Well, as you can see, she has plenty of personality. And, a few days after the op, Noel took in some flowers; as he walked through the door, Kelly-Ann said 'Oh, those flowers smell lovely'. At the time, her eyes were still so swollen she couldn't even see the flowers were there. That seemed amazing."

A week after the surgery, Kelly-Ann was allowed home. But it was months before life began to get back to normal. So weak she had to use a wheelchair to begin with, the schoolgirl couldn't bathe or dress or even walk unaided. "I had to literally crawl up the stairs," she remembers."

Kelly-Ann's main focus was getting back in the saddle. The accident happened on April 21 and by the following August, less than four months later, she was aboard a pony and taking part in a riding school fun day. Soon after that, Kelly-Ann was once again riding at every opportunity.

Aside from some eye problems – for a time she suffered with double vision – and a second op on her sinuses, Kelly-Ann's health has gone from strength to strength and, last year, she was finally discharged from Addenbrooke's. The Challinors say they cannot praise both hospital and Magpas staff enough and make no bones about the fact they saved their daughter's life.

"We are incredibly blessed," adds Carol. "I'm not an overly religious person, but the power of prayer is unbelievable. That's one thing I did a lot of that first night – praying. And I know a lot of family and friends were praying for Kelly-Ann too; we had so much support."

Now looking to the future, Kelly-Ann has the 'joy' of exams ahead and intends 'to see just how far we can take the riding'.

"She does really well at school. We went to a parents' evening the other day and it was just ridiculous," laughs Noel. "Every single teacher said 'Her marks are pretty well straight As, what else can I tell you?'."

"She's got a great circle of friends and she works hard – everything she does, she gives it 100 per cent. She's amazed us all. To be honest, we couldn't be more proud."

Where embroidery meets technology!

FOR a local business that's full of surprises, turn to K&A Designs in Haverhill.

The business, which was established by Keith Williams in 2001 under the name K Designs before his wife Amanda joined the team, specialises in embroidery digitizing. This means that high quality results can be achieved using the latest technology.

What many people don't know about K&A Designs is that it is capable of producing embroidered items (such as polo shirts, promotional items or work wear) on a small scale as well as for large orders.

Keith says: "We understand that there are many small businesses in the area who only need small quantities of embroidered products, which we are more than happy to supply."

Prices are based on the amount of stitches required per design, and quotes are provided on request.

The company is a member of The Best of Haverhill, an initiative which promotes reliable local businesses. To read some testimonials from satisfied customers, visit www.thebestof.co.uk/local/haverhill and search for 'embroidery'.

Excitingly, this year will see the launch of Reaptcha – a brand new venture for the family-run business.

The new project will allow the production of embroidered canvases, with either attractive pre-designed images or on a commissioned basis. For example, you can treat your partner to a unique wedding gift – a canvas commemorating the day you met, or the venue for your wedding; or splash out on a car-themed design for the motor-obsessive in your life. There's plenty of scope for creativity, and the experts at K&A Designs are sure to help you get the professional finish you deserve.

Football star kicks off for healthy diet

A PROFESSIONAL footballer was on hand to reward primary school students for healthy cooking at home.

Michael Morrison, who currently plays for Sheffield Wednesday and grew up in Haverhill, was the guest of honour at the town's Coupals Primary school on Wednesday, where he presented a signed football along with Cineworld cinema tickets to deserving youngsters and their families.

The former Cambridge United centre half congratulated children for taking part in the nationwide Let's Get Cooking initiative, which began with a community cookathon at the Chalkstone Way school a month ago.

Sandra Linnane, a teaching assistant at the school with responsibility for the scheme, said: "The idea behind the initiative was to get as many people in the country cooking healthy recipes as possible and for children to learn new cooking skills."

"We made spaghetti bolognese and the whole school took part. We cooked more than 350 portions and the fire service, police and mayor all helped."

"Then more than 50 students and their families took the skills they had learnt and made the meal at home too, bringing in pictures and drawings of what they had done."

"All their names were put in a prize draw. It was an incentive for them to get involved and it worked really well."

"We are delighted Michael was able to be here and the children were looking forward to meeting him."

Beautiful brass . . .

A brass band will take to the stage in their home town in a bid to raise enough money to make it to the finals of a national competition.

Local group Haverhill Silver will perform at the Haverhill Arts Centre on Sunday at 7.30pm.

The band, which won their area qualifying round in Stevenage in March, are unusual in that they do not benefit from substantial corporate sponsorship like some of their rivals from larger towns and cities across England.

To make it to the brass band national finals in Cheltenham in September they need to fill the coffers.

Richard Pannell, band secretary, said: "The band is very fortunate that the town council assists them with grants and there is a good local following in the arts centre concerts.

"However, we need more local support and now is the chance for the people of Haverhill to hear their Champions of Brass."

The piece that won the area qualification, a transcription of Carnaval Romain by Hector Belioz, will be featured in the concert, along with a mix of traditional and popular music, designed by musical director Mark Ager.

Tickets are £6.50 or £5 for concessions. For more information contact the arts centre box office on (01440) 714140.

Fans are finally on board Alessi's Ark

THE Guide has been shouting about Alessi's Ark to anyone who'll listen for a couple of years now – and it seems the rest of the world is finally waking up to the off-kilter charms of 20-year-old Londoner Alessi Laurent-Marke, with new album Time Travel picking up rave reviews across the board.

Having sharpened her writing skills publishing a fanzine, Brain Bulletin, which she distributed at concerts, through a local record shop and even a launderette on Shepherd's Bush Road, Laurent-Marke went on to pen her first song, Glendora, for a GCSE project. She subsequently left school at 16 to pursue a career in music, promising her parents (her dad Alan is a TV producer who co-founded Channel X with Jonathan Ross) she would go back to the classroom if nothing came of it.

She ended up signing a deal with Virgin Records on the eve of her 17th birthday and, when asked to name her dream musical collaborator, chose Mike Mogis, Conor Oberst's right-hand man in Bright Eyes and the producer behind LA indie-hipsters Rilo Kiley. Later that year, Laurent-Marke found herself at Mogis and Oberst's studio in Omaha recording what would become her debut album, 2009's Notes From The Treehouse.

Last year, she played the Cambridge Corn Exchange in support of Virgin's other big folk-pop signing of 2007, Laura Marling. This summer, Brit Award-winner Marling will headline Cambridge Folk Festival while her former labelmate, now on indie imprint Bella Union, can be found plying her trade in the cosier confines of The Haymakers tonight.

That seems a particularly harsh form of pop (in)justice, but if the notices for Time Travel – another wholly engaging set of winsome, skewey acoustic pop, ranging from the country drawl of Kind of Man to a triumphant cover of Lesley Gore's 60s girl-pop standard Maybe I Know – are anything to go by, Marling had better watch her back. According to The Guardian, "Alessi's Ark is a talent that's on the verge of becoming something special."

We could have told them that years ago. Come to think of it, we did.

■ Alessi's Ark plus Georgia Seddon, The Haymakers, Cambridge, tonight at 7.30pm. Tickets £7.

Stage is set for exotica

CAMP and colourful, tantalising yet tasteful, An Evening of Burlesque brings an injection of vintage glamour to Cambridge this week.

The show has proved a hit at the West End for its fusion of Parisian charm and Vegas-style glamour. There'll be dazzling showgirls and performers galore as the Corn Exchange is transformed into a retro theatre to celebrate the art of music hall.

Expect to be entertained as well as seduced – burlesque is just as much about humour and fun as it is about corsets and cheeky tassels, and the acts are sure to charm and endear with their skilful, acrobatic moves and belting voices.

Prepare for plenty of wardrobe envy too as the girls – and guys – showcase a whole host of spectacular costumes. Party time!

■ An Evening of Burlesque, Cambridge Corn Exchange, tomorrow at 7.30pm. Tickets cost £23. Contact (01223) 357851 / www.cornex.co.uk.

THE WAY
certificate 12A 128m

A GRIEVING patriarch walks in the footsteps of his late son in the fourth directorial feature of actor Emilio Estevez, who once again casts his father, Martin Sheen, in front of the camera.

The Way is a deeply personal film for the Estevez family, who wanted to pay tribute to their Spanish heritage and El Camino de Santiago: a 800-kilometre spiritual pilgrimage starting in St Jean Pied de Port, along the Spanish-French border to the cathedral in Santiago.

En route, pilgrims collect stamps in a passport called the Compostela and use the time in the picturesque countryside and the Pyrenees mountains to reflect and meditate.

The Way chronicles one lonely and selfish man's rebirth but as the 128-minute running time attests, Estevez is in no hurry to reach any conclusions.

Tom (Sheen) is an American optometrist, whose perfect round of golf with his country club chums is ruined by news that his son Daniel (Estevez) has been killed in the Pyrenees in a storm.

The medic flies to France to collect his son's ashes and discovers that Daniel perished on the first leg of the Camino. Tom throws caution to the wind, grabs his son's backpack and guidebook and decides to complete the pilgrimage in Daniel's honour.

Down the path, the medic meets overweight Dutchman Joost (Yorick van Wageningen), who is hoping to use the pilgrimage as a makeshift weight-loss programme.

As the two men continue their walk, they meet emotionally damaged Canadian woman Sarah (Deborah Kara Unger) and creatively blocked Irish writer, Jack (James Nesbitt).

The Way is a love letter to the northern Spanish countryside and the people who open their homes to the pilgrims.

Sheen internalises his character's anguish and we see sadness welling up in Tom's eyes, underscored with occasional moments of humour.

The pacing is pedestrian, just like the actors. Van Wageningen is endearing in his underwritten role but Unger and Nesbitt fail to make any impact, the latter grating on our nerves with his chattering. Well before the credits, we're contemplating a second death on the Camino.

Steps on the garden catwalk

VISITORS to the horticultural event of the year are likely to see more punchy colours, a push on ornamental fruit and veg and a continuing growth in native and naturalistic planting, experts are predicting.

The RHS Chelsea Flower Show is always a showcase for the most inspirational, out-of-this-world designs, but what can we take from the garden catwalk to the average domestic setting?

"There's always a danger that the show gardens become such grand statement pieces that you feel as though there's very little access in terms of the materials and the ideas you can take," says award-winning garden designer Chris Beardshaw, who this year is not only helping create the Bradstone Fusion Garden, an urban show garden, but is also a judge at Chelsea.

"However, there seems to be a number of clear directions – one is a celebration of plants in history, reflecting on the plants which have performed particularly well for us.

"There's a huge move towards

by Hannah Stephenson

native plants and naturalistic planting. It takes a while, when you think that Chelsea is at the high end of the fashion market, for things to become mainstream.

"We are looking at gardening in a very biodiverse way, thinking carefully about the plants we weave together and what effect they are going to have, not just on our senses but on all of the other organisms that we share our spaces with.

"You see plants growing in the way plants want to grow. It's gardening for people who like the organisms around them to be as relaxed as they are."

Hot plants at Chelsea may include a clutch of interesting alpines such as meconopsis (blue poppies), along with quality herbaceous plants such as peonies and almost black bearded irises, while topiarised plants (watch out for the Laurent Perrier garden) will also be popular.

STUNNING: highlights at Chelsea may include black bearded irises.

"Large topiarised plants are becoming more available and people are spending less on collections of plants and more on individual ones," Beardshaw observes.

"People are happy to spend £100 upwards on a single large specimen.

"We are no longer banging the drum of 'Plant it small and wait

50 years and it might turn into what you've anticipated'. By buying larger plants, there's an instantaneous reward that can be gleaned.

"B&Q and Homebase, both at Chelsea with show gardens, feel there's a market for increasing the public's awareness of plant materials.

"The idea of growing fruit and veg in baskets and boxes and up walls and fences has to come in through a more mainstream source.

"Expect new mechanisms for hanging baskets and irrigation, troughs and boxes, to come through those outlets."

Bunny Guinness, winner of six gold medals at the show and designer of the 2011 M&G garden, a modern take on a traditional kitchen garden, predicts that fruit and veg will be brought into the spotlight in domestic gardens.

In the show garden she's designed, cabbages and beans mingle with clematis and roses, while lavender and other herbs ensure the garden smells sweet and fragrant. Large terracotta pots containing lemon, apple and quince fruit trees are placed throughout the garden.

"Some people are still very reluctant to put vegetables into prime positions. In the old days, they were in the walled garden which was miles away from the house because people thought they didn't look particularly good.

"But I think the kitchen garden can look good all year round, anywhere that's highly convenient. I can't think of any vegetable that isn't ornamental when it's arranged well. Seeing any crop nicely grown, whether it's in lines or swirls or curves, looks lovely. Veg should be grown in high-profile places because they are high-profile things."

Volkswagen celebrates 35 years of Golf GTI with Edition 35

To celebrate the 35th anniversary of the original hot hatch, Volkswagen has announced the first details of the latest special edition Golf GTI model – the Golf GTI Edition 35.

With an increase in power of 23bhp over the 'standard' car, the Edition 35 develops 230bhp and is the most powerful production Golf GTI so far.

Since the debut of the first Golf GTI in 1976, the iconic model has enjoyed an uninterrupted history of success which now spans 35 years.

During this time, the GTI has become a car with cult appeal as well as an independent brand and milestone GTI anniversaries have been celebrated with exclusive special models – a tradition Volkswagen continues with the Edition 35.

In addition to the increase in power, the Edition 35 combines classic GTI design elements with features specially created for this latest anniversary model.

A revised front bumper is joined by lightweight 18-inch alloy wheels while, in the cabin, the golf ball gear knob makes a return. To mark out this special edition further, the '35' signature appears on the front wings, sill plates, head restraints and on the centre panel of the seats.

This latest anniversary model will make its world debut at the legendary GTI event at Wörthersee in Austria next month.

The Volkswagen Golf GTI Edition 35 order book opens later this year.

The Volkswagen Golf GTI Edition 35: June debut.

Prices and full UK specification will be announced over the summer.

Diesel car winners: From left are the Jaguar XF (Best Executive Car); the new Ford Focus (Best Medium Car) and the Peugeot RCZ (Best Sports Car).

Citroën DS3 is voted the best diesel on forecourt

DIESEL CAR magazine has announced the winners of its annual car of the year awards 2011, with Citroën's DS3 grabbing the premier spot in this year's awards.

Peugeot's innovative new 3008 HYbrid4 – the first diesel hybrid – is awarded pole position for Best Eco Car 2011.

More than 300 new cars have been put through their paces by Diesel Car's well respected, expert testers, resulting in winners in 10 categories. Once again, the Car of the Year awards are sponsored by Evolution Chips, one of the leaders in the diesel engine tuning industry.

Announcing this year's winners, Ian Robertson, editor of Diesel Car, said: "There has been a lot of new talent arriving on the motoring scene in the past 12 months, despite the difficult market conditions." He went on to say: "I'm so pleased to be able to announce that the Citroën DS3 is Diesel Car's Car of the Year 2011. Not only is it extremely talented on the tarmac, it looks fantastic, suits most pockets and is nicely kitted out. It's the perfect car to make you feel good about yourself."

Ford's newly launched Focus grabs the top spot for medium cars, while the Mondeo takes the honours for best large car. Kia has cause to pop open the champagne corks, as its new crossover challenger, the Sportage, grabs the Best Crossover gong. Another new entrant into the marketplace in 2010 is the Seat Alhambra which beats all the other contenders to the Best MPV spot.

Some of this year's class winners are no strangers to the podium, with Peugeot's RCZ also winning best sports car last year. Land Rover's Discovery 4 also takes the honour of best 4x4 for the second time running, while Skoda's Superb Estate grabbed best estate car for the second year. None of them can beat the Jaguar XF though, which wins best executive car for the fourth year in succession.

Superchips bumps up S-Max's power

SUPERCHIPS, the world's leader in high performance automotive electronic tuning, has launched an ECU remap for the March 2010 onwards versions of the Ford S-Max.

This product launch is of particular significance because this version of the S-Max uses the new 200bhp 2.0-litre, direct injection, turbocharged 'Ecoboost' engine, which will become a mainstay of Ford's petrol engine range over the next few years.

Despite the all-new engine, Superchips' in-house engineers were able to readily pinpoint and remove the in-built performance compromises within the S-Max's Bosch MED17 ECU, enabling a performance gain of 40bhp at 5,648rpm.

Suitable for all Ford S-Max 2.0-litre, 200bhp Ecoboost models produced from March 2010 onwards, the Superchips' ECU remap is priced at £455 including VAT.

First MoT test fee is paid by warranty firm

INDUSTRY leading direct to consumer car warranty provider, Warranty Direct, has teamed up with Kwik Fit to offer drivers of three-year old cars the chance to get their first MoT test fee for free.

With nearly a million more cars failing their MOT test in 2010 than three years ago, drivers can avoid the test fee, which amounts to almost £55, by registering at www.warrantydirect.co.uk/mot.

The number of cars failing their MoT increased by more than 2 per cent over the last three years, to 40.6 per cent in 2010. That equates to an extra 976,000 vehicles. Coincidentally, three years is traditionally the age at which cars start displaying signs of wear and tear and typically leave the protective umbrella of a manufacturer warranty.

Cars registered at least 30 days before the third anniversary of their original registration date can then be booked into one of 550 Kwik Fit workshops for a free MoT. Even non-qualifying cars can receive 45 per cent off the MoT test fee.

If drivers take up the no-obligation quote for an extended warranty offered by Warranty Direct as part of the registration process, they will also get their MOT fees paid for every year for the life of the warranty.

Duncan McClure Fisher, managing director of Warranty Direct, said: "Three years of age is generally a landmark age for a car. In most cases, it stops being covered by the manufacturer's warranty and things start going wrong and wearing out.

"With times being as tough as they are economically, the legal requirement of the MOT test is an additional burden on the household budget that we could all do without, although the test itself remains essential for road safety."

It's that time again: MoT fees are an annual burden.

In order to qualify for the free MoT fee offer, cars must be registered at least 30 days before the third anniversary of their original registration date and must also have an original manufacturer's warranty that expires on or before the third anniversary.

Alternatively visit www.warrantydirect.co.uk/mot for more information, plus terms, conditions and exclusions.

Pay-as-you-go warranty options will suit Volkswagen owners

MONDIAL Assistance UK has introduced a new range of pay-as-you-go warranty options for Volkswagen drivers to suit different driving needs and budgets, with the launch of a new extended online Extended Warranty product.

Operated by Mondial Assistance, one of the UK's largest motor manufacturer warranty providers, the new service brings customers quality cover and flexible payment options.

Volkswagen owners can now pay for warranty cover which suits their typical mileage, helping customers get the best value for money. "At a time when budgets are stretched, motorists are looking for ways to save. Those drivers who use their car less often than average may be tempted to cut costs by not renewing their annual warranty cover," says Dave Wilding, Used Car Supply Manager at Volkswagen UK. "We have launched our Extended Warranty product to offer Volkswagen owners access to a true 'pay as you go' option. Customers can now choose to buy as little as three months warranty cover or as much as 18 months – they decide."

In addition, payments can be made in one-off sums or paid monthly for added flexibility and convenience. And to meet the needs of all customers further, the service is available to buy either online or over the phone.

Dave concludes: "Working with Mondial Assistance means our customers can be reassured that trained Volkswagen technicians will work on their car, using only genuine Volkswagen parts."

Ten tips to improve your driving style

ROAD safety charity the IAM is offering weekly motoring tips from Britain's top advanced driver, Peter Rodger.

This week he recommends ten tips for better driving.

1. READ THE ROAD: the further ahead you look, the more time you have to recognise and respond to hazards. Always be able to stop your vehicle in the distance you can see to be clear.

2. ANTICIPATE: having looked further ahead use that knowledge to anticipate the problems that might come up and plan for them well in advance to avoid needing to take last minute action.

3. USE THE TWO SECOND RULE: spot a marker ahead, such as a bridge or a lamppost and wait until the vehicle ahead of you goes past it. Then say to yourself "only a fool breaks the two second rule". If you are at the marker before you have finished, you are too close. Double it if the road is wet.

4. CONCENTRATE: at 70mph your stopping distance is the length of a football pitch. Looking away at a crucial moment can be fatal.

5. ASSUME THE WORST: never assume

Be careful how you go: Care must be taken at all times for a successful journey.

that another motorist has seen you or will react as you expect – and don't rely on somebody else's reactions to keep you safe.

6. LOOK BEHIND – and to the side: use mirrors regularly so you have a 360 degree knowledge of what's going on around you. Use shoulder checks before you move out to solve blind spot problems.

7. MANAGE YOUR PERSONAL SPACE: if you keep space around your vehicle, you'll have more time and room to deal with hazards.

8. STAY FRESH: driver fatigue is a major factor in many crashes. Take at least a 15 minute break after two hours at the wheel.

9. NO SUDDEN MOVEMENTS: if you have scanned all around you and used that information to predict what may happen, you should never be surprised by another vehicle's movements.

10. LEARN FROM YOUR MISTAKES: near misses happen to everybody. Afterwards, think how you could have avoided getting into that situation, even if you think it was the other driver's fault.

Rodger said: "Following these tips could make the difference between being in an accident or avoiding it. All drivers should think about taking further driving training to improve their performance behind the wheel and save money on running and maintenance costs."

Watch out – there may be a slam-on fraud coming your way at any time

LEADING car insurance expert, Admiral looked at data from more than 200,000 of its accident claims in 2010 and found 27 per cent of them occurred when one car hit another from behind. This is a 9 per cent increase in the percentage of these types of accidents from 2009.

Many rear-end accidents result in whiplash for the occupants of the car, and whiplash alone costs insurers £1.9 billion a year and accounts for 75 per cent of all bodily injury claims.

Admiral managing director, Sue Longthorn, said, "Rear-end shunts are all too common on our roads which I can only imagine is down to driving habits.

"Congestion means we often travel in slow moving traffic and many of us get frustrated and drive a little too aggressively. This can cause us to bump the car in front.

"On faster roads many of us don't leave enough space between ourselves and the vehicle in front. If the car in front needs to break suddenly, it's possible to go straight into the back of them."

An increase in crash for cash accidents is a worrying statistic that could explain the rise in rear-end accidents. Around 30,000 accidents are staged each year, with each claim averaging around £17,000.

Sue Longthorn, said, "We have seen a significant rise in rear-end accidents in one year and included within this is the increased number of 'slam on' accidents reported by our customers. These are accidents where a fraudulent motorist will slam on their brakes unexpectedly causing the motorist behind to drive into the back of their vehicle.

"It's very difficult to prove incidents such as these so we would advise all motorists to be aware they are on the increase and be vigilant. There are unscrupulous drivers out there causing slam on accidents so it's important to keep your distance from cars in front."

Insurance fraud costs our industry £3 billion a year and the cost has to be met in increased premiums. In fact, it works out at an additional £44 on everyone's premium.

Slam-on: Not always accidental.

KEITH Vincent and Simon Bishop put the champions to the sword with a fantastic partnership as Abington beat Haverhill by 11 runs.

Abington lost a wicket to the second ball of the innings, but that was the only success Haverhill had as Vincent plundered an unbeaten 96 and Bishop 63 not out to steer their side to 176 for 1.

Haverhill responded well, with Dan Poole hitting 38 and Liam Savage 26, but good bowling and fading light helped Abington to a very good win as Haverhill were stopped on 165 for 6.

In Division Two, Horseheath skipper Gary Ellis led his team clear at the top of the table with an unbeaten 64 as they totalled 166 for 3 against Halstead. Andy Edwards added 27 and Dave Brown 34.

Martin Giles then took 5 for 25 as Halstead were limited to 104 for 6.

Will Bryant's 58 helped Cherry Tree (145 for 4) see off Helions Bumpstead (102 for 5).

Hundon were on the wrong end of a mammoth Long Melford total of 211 for 6, and mustered 171 in reply.

In Division 3B, leaders Shelfords had a comfortable victory over Mill Green, Dan Heath hitting 43 not out as they reached 116 for 1 in reply to 115 for 4.

Tom Daniels' 32 and 41 from Jack Squires was not enough for Balsham as Linton's Russell Griggs made 57 to help his side to victory, reaching 115 for 4 in reply to Balsham's 113 for 7.

In 3A, Haverhill II had a walkover when Gestingthorpe were unable to raise a team.

>> Cricket: Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship

Silverwood a six-hit in rout

CHRIS Silverwood turned in a magnificent display of fast bowling with six wickets to send unbeaten Mistleay away from Haverhill well beaten in Division One.

Skipper Adam Dellar won the toss and put Mistleay in, and with a strong breeze blowing down the ground, Silverwood built up a good head of steam. The ex-England international claimed the opening two wickets, clean bowling Garwood for six and then trapping Barlow leg before for a duck.

A decent partnership followed but with the score on 67 Dan Poole got a delivery through Griggs (30) and he was also lbw. Shortly afterwards, Stu Ketteridge had Bibby (33) well caught by Dellar at extra cover.

Butcher (6) was next to go, clean bowled by the returning Silverwood, who then had Manning caught behind by Luke Youngs without scoring.

A run out and a wicket for Rajan Singh followed, before Silverwood picked up the final two wickets and the visitors were all out for 119.

Silverwood's figures of 12-1-13-6 are the best by any Haverhill player in Two Counties cricket for two years.

Webb and Youngs opened up for Haverhill and put on a half-century partnership before Webb (34) was adjudged lbw to Manning.

Dellar joined Youngs and they both played each ball on its merits as they moved towards victory. Youngs (38no) hit a couple of exquisite drives down the ground and it was Dellar (38no) who deposited a huge six into the car park to take Haverhill over the line with nine wickets intact.

Teenager Anthony Phillips hit an unbeaten half-century as Haverhill II beat Nacton by three wickets in Division Six.

Nacton won the toss and decided to bat, and made steady but unspectacular progress.

The first wicket fell to Ben Wilkins (1 for 28), but the home side progressed slowly to 122 for 1 before the second wicket fell to Dan Webb (2 for 33).

Martyn Wilkins had a finger dislocated as he fielded a drive in his follow-through, and Dan Pass took over, finishing with 1 for 39 as Nacton closed on 154 for 4.

Sam Hartshorn hit 32 of the first 33 runs of Haverhill's reply before he was out, and Carl Bradford followed next ball after getting an unplayable lifter off a length. Two wickets fell on 43 as Liam Savage was bowled off his elbow and Bill Moran caught off a top edge.

Wilkins (20) and Jason Ketteridge (28) put on 35 valuable runs before Ketteridge unluckily played on, bringing 15-year-old Phillips to the crease.

The pair put on a fantastic 57 runs in good time but, just as victory beckoned, Wilkins was dismissed by a ball that stopped a bit. However, Sam Pass supported Phillips (52 not out) to his half-century and victory was achieved with three overs to spare.

Cup agony despite Mayes' strike

JAMIE Mayes' early goal was not enough to prevent Hundon missing out on the silverware.

Mayes gave Hundon the lead with a strike from the edge of the box after just five minutes in the final at Lakenheath, only for Thetford Rovers to reply midway through the first half.

Both sides were reduced to 10 men on 65 minutes following an altercation between Craig Hutchinson and a Rovers player.

The Gleave & Associates Anglian Combination outfit went ahead soon after, before settling matters late on.

Manager Rod Gaffan said: "We never really got out of the blocks. I told them at half time we were too slow and lethargic.

"I know it's the end of the season, but this was a cup final and Thetford started the second half better than us as well."

Hundon finished bottom of the Kershaw League, Premier Division and are awaiting their fate over whether they will be relegated or not.

Gaffan said: "We're working on the basis we'll go down, but we've already got two or three new players definitely coming next season and we'll go from there."
